

The Week Ahead

House Republicans to Hold Border Security Hearings in Two States

August 7, 2006

House Republicans will continue to hold field hearings this week to examine the issue of border security, the inherent weaknesses of the Reid-Kennedy bill, and the impact that illegal immigration has on a wide range of issues. This week, two House committees will be holding hearings in two different states. The schedule for the week is below:

HOMELAND SECURITY COMMITTEE

Bellingham, WA on August 8th --- What are the border infrastructure successes since passage of the REAL ID Act and the 9/11 Commission Implementation Act, and what challenges still exist?

ENERGY AND COMMERCE COMMITTEE

Nashville, TN on August 10th --- What is the impact of the Reid-Kennedy bill's amnesty provisions on the healthcare delivery system and for individual American taxpayers?
